GENERAL ALLEGATIONS

Introduction

8. The owners of Plaintiff Vino Grotto and Defendant WRA were formerly associated and are now in competition with one another. In a vindictive attempt to put Vino Grotto out of business, Defendants have created a website which copies content wholesale from Plaintiff's website, stealing images, trade dress and common law trademarks for the purpose of confusing visitors and potential customers of Vino Grotto. Defendants have contacted virtually all of Plaintiff's suppliers demanding they stop doing business with Plaintiff as a condition of their continued business with Defendants. In the course of these conversations and communications, Defendants have repeatedly defamed Plaintiff. Defendants have offered Plaintiff's suppliers money to lock Plaintiff out of the market. Defendants are running cost per click advertisement on Plaintiff's trademarks on search engines to steal Plaintiff's customers. Defendants have posted numerous false reviews on the Internet to steal market share, including numerous false five star reviews meant to conceal or dilute the effect of numerous legitimate one star reviews of Defendants' products. Defendants have attempted to drive other competitors out of the market using "click fraud" techniques. Defendants have forged photographs and address information online to create the illusion of legitimacy, including photoshopping signage onto buildings to create the impression of established operations in far-flung geographic regions. Defendants have engaged in ongoing concerted, anticompetitive, tortious and unlawful actions all calculated to interfere with Plaintiff's economic relations and put Plaintiff out of business in violation of federal and state statutes and common law.

Defendants' Background & Association with Plaintiff

9. Vino Grotto began doing business in 2014 selling wine storage and cellar racks commonly used in residences.
10. Vino Grotto's managing member is currently, and at all times relevant has been, Jason Miller, a resident of Davis County.

11. Prior to April of 2014, Jason Miller was an employee of Defendant WRA, with its principal place of business in Davis County.
12. Going back to 1998, Mr. Miller and Defendant WRA's president Defendant Jeffrey Ogzewalla were friends who had worked together on a number of startups.
13. Originally Mr. Miller and Mr. Ogzewalla were inspired to sell wine racks by a client of Plaintiff's principal Jason Miller. Screenshots of the 2002 website and products sold are attached hereto as Exhibit A. Around 2002, Mr. Ogzewalla bought out Mr. Miller's ownership for $2,500. Mr. Ogzewalla now misrepresents the origins of WRA in Yelp! postings online as manifest by Exhibit B hereto.
14. Later Mr. Miller was again employed by WRA with the promise he would be given equity in WRA. Mr. Ogzewalla exchanged a number of proposals with Mr. Miller which would have given Mr. Miller ownership in WRA, including those attached hereto as Exhibit C. None of these were acceptable to Mr. Miller because each, inter alia, proposed making Mr. Miller personally responsible for WRA debts in exchange for the equity position Mr. Miller believed had been promised him, as well as numerous other objectionable terms.
15. Mr. Miller noted Mr. Ogzewalla's tendency towards vindictive and unlawful behavior as manager of WRA during Mr. Miller's association with him, including actions by Mr. Ogzewalla such as putting up a website at <oldtownwineracks.com> showing a picture of a former WRA employee coming out of a horse's behind. This employee had started a competing wine rack business at <oldtownwineracks.com> attached hereto as Exhibit U towards which Mr. Ogzewalla openly stated his resentment. Mr. Ogzewalla later purchased the domain <oldtownwineracks.com> after the business did not succeed. Mr.

Ogzewalla repeatedly and openly bragged to employees that he was putting competitors out of business using unlawful means, such as <grottocellars.com> by repeatedly committing “click fraud” on their online cost-per-click advertisements (i.e., by repeatedly clicking the advertisements of WRA’s competitors every morning until the competitor’s advertising budget was depleted and ads removed from MSN, Yahoo and Google paid searches for each day). Defendant stated he could deceive search engines by erasing browser history and using internet masking software.

16. In another notable instance, Mr. Ogzewalla became upset when a former WRA employee named Christopher Bender left and began working for a competitor Paul Wyatt Designs <paulwyattdesigns.com>. Mr. Ogzewalla emailed this new employer while feigning to be a prospective customer with false complaints about Mr. Bender’s performance and his ability to follow up on purchase inquiries.
17. Unable to reach an acceptable agreement for equity in WRA and unhappy with Mr. Ogzewalla’s management of WRA, on March 31, 2014, Mr. Miller submitted his resignation as an employee of WRA, effective at the end of that day.
18. Thereafter, Defendants withheld Mr. Miller’s paycheck without cause, demanding in emails and documents collectively attached hereto as Exhibit D that Mr. Miller sign noncompetition agreements to receive the pay to which Mr. Miller was already entitled, as well as attempting to impose numerous other obligations on Mr. Miller including releases of all claims against WRA.

Defendants’ Unlawful Attempts to Put Plaintiff Out of Business

19. On, or about, April 1, 2014, Mr. Miller’s began working full time with a competing startup operation Vino Grotto, Plaintiff to this matter.

20. Since then, Plaintiff has been victimized by numerous vindictive, tortious, anti-competitive and otherwise unlawful actions of Defendants, all in an attempt to put Plaintiff out of business.
21. After Miller began working for Vino Grotto, upon information and belief, Defendants began contacting Plaintiff's suppliers, vendors and contractees insisting Plaintiff's suppliers/contractees stop doing business with Vino Grotto as a condition of their continued association with WRA while also making false and defamatory comments about Plaintiff and Plaintiff's principals. These contacts include:
 - (a) Ogzewalla contacted Tom Schneider at WhisperKool, as supplier of both Plaintiff and WRA, and demanded WhisperKool cease doing business with Plaintiff as a condition of WRA's continued association with Defendants, as fact affirmed by WhisperKool in emails.
 - (b) Ogzewalla contacted Wayne Bailey at Creekside Manufacturing as supplier to Plaintiff and former supplier of WRA, and demanded Creekside Manufacturing cease doing business with Plaintiff as a condition of WRA's continued association with Creekside Manufacturing, making numerous false and defamatory comments about Plaintiff.
 - (c) Ogzewalla contacted Charles Malek at VintageView, as supplier of both Plaintiff and WRA, and demanded VintageView cease doing business with Plaintiff as a condition of WRA's continued association with VintageView, making numerous false and defamatory comments about Plaintiff.
 - (d) Ogzewalla contacted Ben Argov at IWA, as supplier of both Plaintiff and WRA, and demanded IWA cease doing business with Plaintiff as a condition of WRA's continued association with IWA, making numerous false and defamatory comments about Plaintiff. Plaintiff is informed Defendant made “horrible” statements about Plaintiff’s principal Mr. Miller.

- (e) Ogzewalla contacted FedEx Freightwire via a sales representative and demanded FedEx refuse to do business with Plaintiff as a condition of WRA’s continued association with FedEx, making numerous false and defamatory comments about Plaintiff.
 - (f) Ogzewalla contacted Mike Militi with Wine Guardian and demanded Wine Guardian refuse to do business with Plaintiff as a condition of WRA’s continued association with Wine Guardian, making numerous false and defamatory comments about Plaintiff.
 - (g) Ogzewalla contacted Iron Wine Cellars making numerous false and defamatory comments about Plaintiff.
 - (h) Ogzewalla openly told WRA employees to do all they can to shut down Plaintiff’s operations.
22. As a result of Defendants’ contact with Plaintiff’s suppliers, many of Plaintiff’s suppliers discontinued economic relations with Plaintiff, and Plaintiff’s economic relations were otherwise damaged and/or interfered with by Defendants.
23. Additional evidence of Defendants’ intentional attempts to interfere with Plaintiff’s existing and prospective economic relations with its suppliers/vendors is attached hereto as Exhibit S in the form of emails from Defendants to Plaintiff’s suppliers.

24. Because of Defendants' unlawful actions, Plaintiff was forced to order supplies through a third party under the name of RB Sales Co. from some suppliers in order to comply with Mr. Ogzewalla's demands.
25. After discovering in recent weeks that Plaintiff was using the name RB Sales Co., Ogzewalla personally registered the domain <rbsalesco.com> in February of 2018 in violation of the Anticybersquatting Consumer Protection Act (ACPA) as manifest by the Whois record attached hereto as Exhibit T.
26. On or about June 30, 2014, Defendant Ogzewalla personally formed a new website for the purpose of impersonating Plaintiff's website, trade dress and common law trademarks at one of many domains he owned, <premierwinecellars.com>.
27. Ogzewalla proceeded to use his website at <premierwinecellars.com> to mimic Plaintiff's website in almost every regard, updating <premierwinecellars.com> to copy Plaintiff's website every time Plaintiff changed anything on Plaintiff's website. Defendant used identical website services for user chat and product reviews to further mimic website appearance and functionality.
28. A screenshot taken on October 25, 2015 of Premier Wine Cellars (PWC) attached as Exhibit E shows PWC to be nearly identical to Plaintiff's website at the same date as shown in the screenshot attached hereto as Exhibit F.

Defendants' website in October of 2015

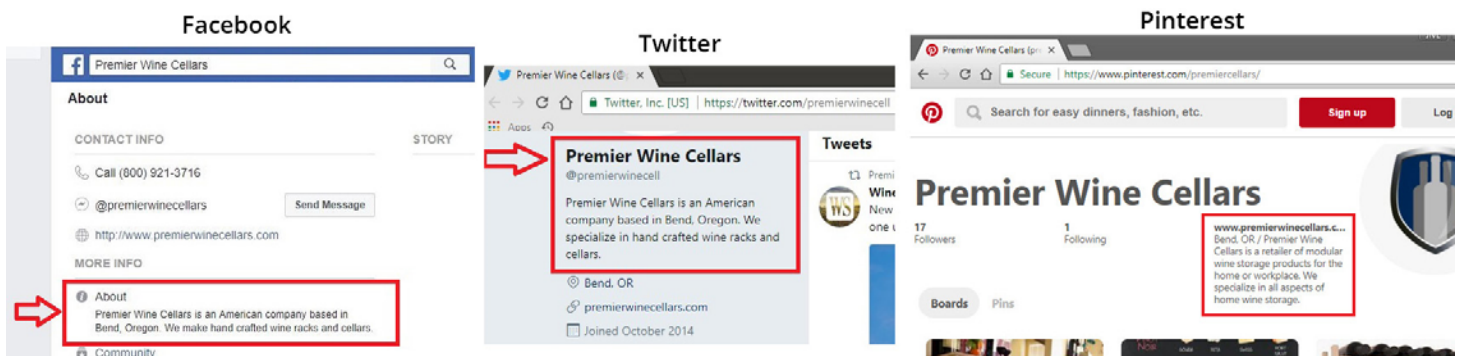

Plaintiff's website on or about July 13, 2015

29. In addition to changing the overall appearance of PWC to mimic Plaintiff's website, Defendants repeatedly lifted images wholesale from Plaintiff's website as evidenced by the screenshots of both websites attached as Exhibit G hereto as shown below (emphasis added in red).

30. From its inception, Defendants have intentionally and falsely misrepresented PWC to be an Oregon company doing business in the city of Bend as shown by the exhibits collective attached hereto as Exhibit H and below.

31. From its inception, Defendants have intentionally misrepresented and/or forged information about PWC to create the illusion of legitimacy in an attempt attract market share from Plaintiff, including prominently posting false photographs of PWC's nonexistent headquarters in Bend, Oregon as shown in the screenshot of PWC website in Exhibit I hereto.

32. This photograph Defendants have posted at PWC's website and elsewhere across the Internet is not a photograph of PWC's Oregon facility, but rather a photograph of Defendant WRA's building in Utah with the signage reading "Premier Wine Cellars" photo-shopped by Defendants onto the photograph.

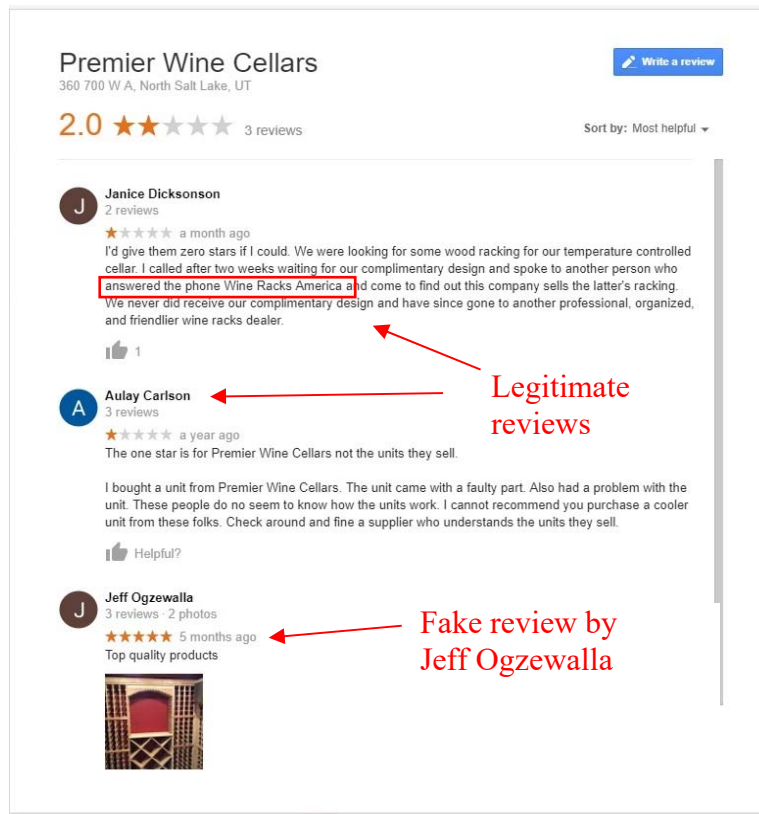

33. Defendants falsely represent on their contact us page that the nonexistent building shown above is located in Bend, Oregon as manifest by the Contact Us page also included in Exhibit I hereto and shown to the right.

34. Defendants make further false statement on their website(s), including inviting prospective customers to “step in and see our showroom” knowing Defendants have no showroom.
35. In an attempt to deceptively increase its market share at Plaintiff’s expense and to dilute the effect of legitimate negative reviews of PWC and WRA, Defendants began posting false positive reviews of PWC and WRA on Google Trusted Reviews as manifest by Exhibit J hereto.

36. Upon information and belief, the positive 5 star reviews of PWC and WRA are forgeries by Defendants' employees, principals or independent contractees, while all negative 1 star reviews of PWC are by legitimate PWC customers.
37. Defendants' employees have attempted to interfere with nearly every aspect of Plaintiff's business model upon direct personal order of Jeff Ogzewalla, including repeatedly opening accounts with Plaintiff's suppliers, for the purpose of mimicking Defendant's exact same product offerings and eventually using Defendants' influence to persuade suppliers to cut supplies to Plaintiff, including opening accounts subsequently to Plaintiff with Wine Enthusiast, Eco-Wine-Racks, STACT, True Fabrications and others.

38. All of these actions manifest not just an intentional attempt to destroy Plaintiff's actual and prospective economic relations, but a recognition of the notoriety and repute of Plaintiff and Plaintiff's common law marks.

39. Defendants have repeatedly infringed common law trademarks of Plaintiff.

40. PWC was originally using the logo shown to the right

as manifest by Exhibit K hereto:

41. Plaintiff began using a logo showing a wine bottle silhouetted by a dark background as shown the to the right:

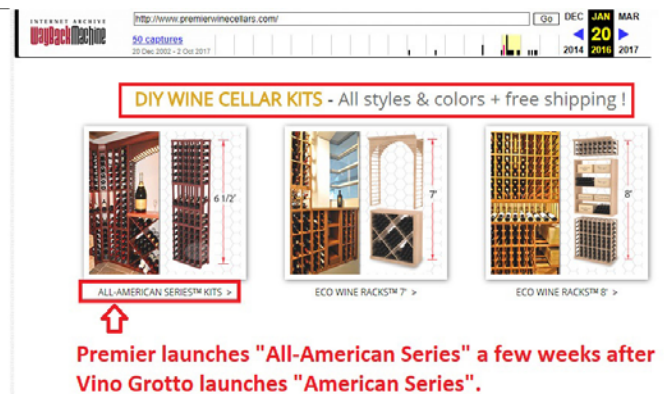

42. Thereafter, Defendants began using a logo showing a wine bottle silhouetted by a dark background as shown the to the right:

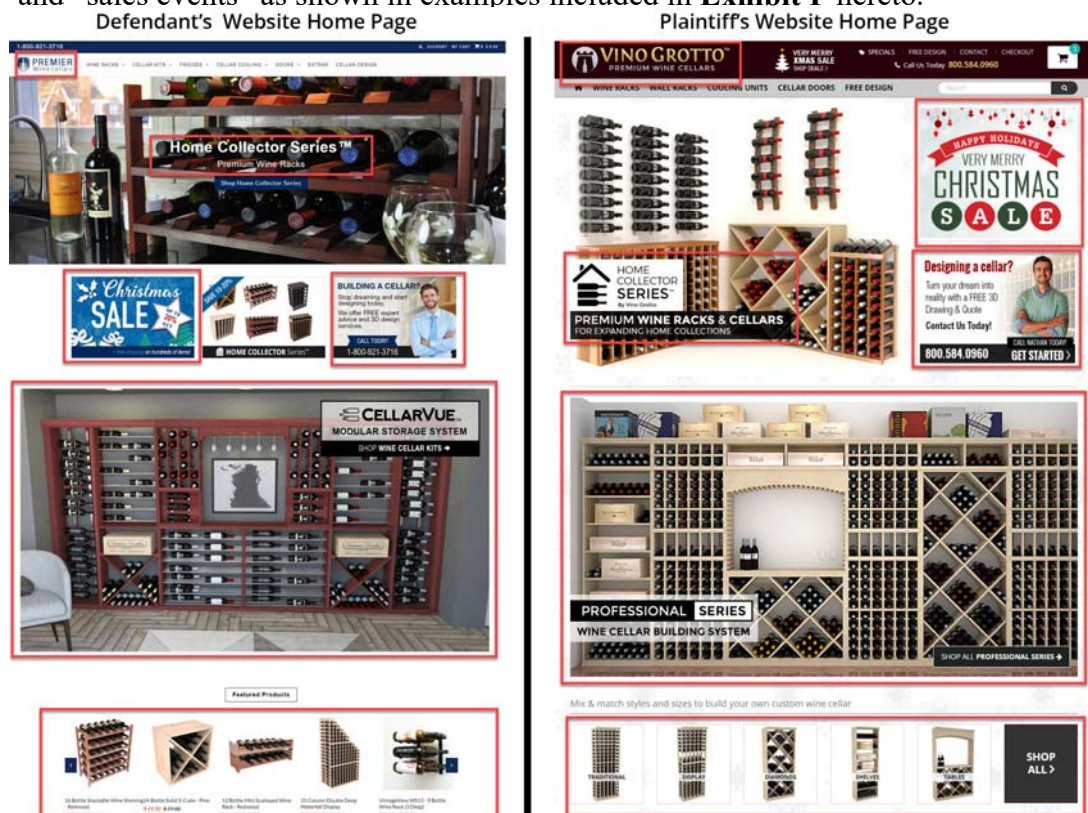

43. In 2015, Vino Grotto announced the launch of its American Series wine cellar kits.

44. Within days, Defendant Ogzewalla announced the launch of his All-American Series wine cellar kits shown below and in Exhibit V hereto.

45. On October 3, 2015, Vino Grotto announced in a press release attached as Exhibit L hereto the release of its new Professional Series wine cellar kits having 3.75" bottle cubicles.

46. Thereafter Defendants renamed their All-American Series to Pro Series wine cellar kits as shown in Exhibit M hereto.
47. In January of 2016, Vino Grotto announced the launch of its Home Collector Series™ wine cellar kits as manifest by Exhibit N hereto using the shown logo/stylized trademark:
48. In October of 2017, Defendants launched the competing Home Collector Series wine cellar kits using the exact same name and a confusingly similar logo/stylized trademark as shown in Exhibit O.
49. Since 2014, Plaintiff has labeled its brand name (as well as its product names) as protected with the ™ common law trademark symbol, including VINO GROTTO.
50. On dozens of other occasions, Defendants modified the PWC site to mimic Plaintiff's site and "sales events" as shown in examples included in Exhibit P hereto.

51. Plaintiff has common law trademark rights in the mark VINO GROTTO and HOME COLLECTOR SERIES, and has exclusive rights to use of the Marks. Through continuous use, Plaintiff has established notoriety and secondary meaning in the VINO GROTTO and HOME COLLECTOR SERIES marks.
52. Plaintiff has established secondary meaning in the marks VINO GROTTO and HOME COLLECTOR SERIES. This is true given the nature and extent of advertising as well as member and public recognition.
53. As a result of the manhours, investments, advertisements, website, marketing, and sales, Complainant has built the marks VINO GROTTO and HOME COLLECTOR SERIES into the distinctive identifiers of Complainant's products which they are. Years of effort have culminated in the marks VINO GROTTO and HOME COLLECTOR SERIES becoming well-known across the wine rack market.
54. The marks VINO GROTTO and HOME COLLECTOR SERIES have become famous, and the purchasing public, vendors and other entities have come to recognize Plaintiff's Complainant's common law marks as the distinctive identifier which they are.
55. Upon information and belief, in 2016 Defendant Ogzewalla offered Plaintiff's supplier/vendor Wayne Bailey of Creekside Manufacturing money to stop doing business with Plaintiff and to "cut Plaintiff off" from further orders.
56. Defendants have posted cost-per-click advertisement across the Internet infringing Plaintiff's common law rights in the VINO GROTTO mark and other common law marks.
57. As manifest by Exhibit Q hereto, Defendants are using Plaintiff's trademarks to link the PWC website across Google, Yahoo!, Bing and other search engines using cost-per-click advertisements to drive traffic intended for the Plaintiff to the Defendants' websites at both <premierwinecellars.com> and <wineracksamerica.com>.

58. The use of Plaintiff's common law marks to drive traffic to Defendants' website constitutes trademark infringement.
59. Consumers are confused and lured using Defendants' deception to Defendants' website believing they are arriving at Plaintiff's website.
60. Defendants' advertisements create identity confusion on the part of prospective customers of Plaintiff. Defendant copies Plaintiff's cost-per-click advertisements identically in order to interfere with Plaintiff's advertising business model as shown in examples below and included in Exhibit Q hereto and infringe Plaintiff's marks.

61. Defendants' actions have persisted continuously for more than four years without cessation.
62. Within the last few week, Plaintiff observed Defendants beginning a new round of deceptive marketing practices, taking customer reviews of WRA and changing them to appear as reviews of PWC as manifest by the reviews show collectively in Exhibit R hereto (emphasis added in red) and summarized below:

63. Defendants' actions have and will continue to irreparably harm Plaintiff.
64. Upon information and belief, all of Defendants' action were taken at the direct instruction of Ogzewalla.

Plaintiff's Damages

65. Plaintiff has suffered millions in damages as a consequence of Defendants' actions. Plaintiff's suppliers have refused to do business with Plaintiff and denied Plaintiff's credit lines. Millions of dollars in revenue has been diverted by Defendants' actions away from Plaintiff, including away to Defendants using forged images, images stolen straight off Plaintiff's website(s), reviews, and through other tortious means including trade libel. Plaintiff's common law marks, including VINO GROTTTO and HOME COLLECTOR SERIES, have been infringed and diluted by Defendants. Thousands of customers have chosen not to do business with Plaintiff as a direct result of Defendants' false and defamatory statement thereon, resulting in damages in the millions of dollars.

66. Defendants' unlawful conduct has and will damage the Plaintiff through the loss of customers, profits, business, reputation, and good will. Plaintiff has suffered further damage through expenditures associated with bringing this action.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
UNFAIR COMPETITION
15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)

67. Plaintiff incorporates and re-alleges all of the foregoing paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.
68. On information and belief, Defendants' actions, in commerce, to entice Internet consumers to Defendants' PWC and WRA websites through the use of Plaintiff's trademark are likely to cause confusion or mistake, or to deceive as to the affiliation, connection, or association of the Defendants' goods and services with Plaintiff or Plaintiff's trademarks; or as to the origin, sponsorship, or approval of the Defendants' goods, services, and commercial activities by Plaintiff under the VINO GROTTTO trademark.
69. Defendants' continued use of the VINO GROTTTO trademark without the prior authorization of Plaintiff infringes Plaintiff's exclusive rights in that trademark and constitutes violations of Section 43 of the Lanham Trademark Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a).

70. Defendants' actions as described above have also caused and are likely to cause confusion, or to cause mistake, or to deceive as to the affiliation, connection, or association of Defendants with Plaintiff, or as to the origin, sponsorship, or approval of Plaintiff's goods, services, or commercial activities by Plaintiff, and thus constitute false designations of origin, passing off, and unfair competition in violation of Section 43(a) of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)(1)(a).
71. Defendants have committed the acts alleged above with the previous knowledge of Plaintiff's use and superior rights to the VINO GROTTTO trademark and HOME COLLECTOR SERIES trademarks.
72. Further, Defendants' actions were for the willful and calculated purpose of trading upon Plaintiff's goodwill and for the willful and calculated purpose of misleading and deceiving purchasers and the public with an intent to reap the benefit of the VINO GROTTTO trademark.
73. Defendants have intended to divert consumers from Plaintiff to harm Plaintiff's goodwill in the Marks.
74. Plaintiff has been damaged extensively as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct.
75. By reason of Defendants' acts of false designation as alleged above, Plaintiff has suffered, and will continue to suffer, substantial damage to its business reputation and goodwill, as well as diversion of trade and loss of profits in an amount not yet ascertained. Plaintiff is entitled to damages in an amount that will be ascertained according to proof pursuant to 15 U.S.C. §1117.
76. Defendants' acts alleged above have caused and will cause irreparable harm to Plaintiff for which Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law in that: (i) if Defendants' wrongful conduct continues, consumers are likely to become further confused about the nature of Plaintiff's services; (ii) Plaintiff's VINO GROTTO trademark is a unique intellectual property, which has no readily determinable value; (iii) the infringement by Defendants constitutes an interference with Plaintiff's goodwill and customer relationships; and (iv) Defendants' wrongful conduct, and the damages resulting to Plaintiff, is continuing. Plaintiff is entitled to injunctive relief pursuant to 15 U.S.C. §1116(a).

77. Plaintiff is also entitled to recover its attorney fees and costs of suit from Defendants pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1117.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
COMMON LAW UNFAIR COMPETITION

78. Plaintiff realleges and reincorporates each of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.
79. Plaintiff has invested, and continues to invest, significant time, money, and other resources in marketing Vino Grotto products, and in creating goodwill with the online community.
80. At all relevant times, Vino Grotto has been engaged in the business of marketing and selling wine racks in interstate commerce via the Internet, including on <vinogrotto.com>.
81. At all relevant times, Defendants has been engaged in the business of marketing and selling wine racks in interstate commerce via the Internet, including on <premierwineracks.com> and <wineracksamerica.com>.
82. At all relevant times, Defendants knew PWC was not doing business in Bend, Oregon, that photographs of PWC's operations and building were forged, that content on the PWC was misappropriated from Plaintiff, and that reviews Defendants had posted online were forged.

83. Defendants' statements with regard to these matters are utterly false and untrue statements of material facts that misrepresent the nature, characteristics, and quality of Defendants' products and are intended to and likely to deceive the public.
84. Nonetheless, Defendants made these false and misleading statements of fact willfully with an intent to deceive and mislead the public into believing that Defendants organization and products were superior to their actual quality and with the intention of impersonating and/or misappropriating the good will of Plaintiff's marks, products and/or trade dress.
85. Defendants made each of the false statements identified herein in a commercial advertisement or promotion because they were made on Defendants' commercial websites and third-party review sites.
86. Defendants' posting of false favorable customer reviews for WRA and PWC identified herein were made in commercial advertising and promotion because they were posted on the product page for Defendants on at least Google.com.
87. Defendants' false favorable customer reviews identified herein touting and recommending Defendants' products misrepresent the nature, characteristics, and qualities of Defendants' products because the reviews and recommendations stated therein are fabrications and do not reflect the actual experiences of customers that purchased Defendants' products.

88. Defendants' false and misleading statements identified herein have caused, and continue to cause damage to VINO Grotto's business, reputation, goodwill, and the loss of sales and profits VINO Grotto would have made, but for Defendants' acts.
89. VINO Grotto is entitled to recover any profits obtained by Defendants as a result of its unfair competition.
90. This is an exceptional case, and VINO Grotto is therefore entitled to recover its attorney fees from Defendants.
91. As a result of the unfair competition complained of herein, VINO Grotto has been irreparably damaged to an extent not yet determined, and will continue to be irreparably damaged by such acts in the future unless Defendants are enjoined by this Court from committing further acts of unfair competition. Such irreparable harm includes as least (i) erosion to the demand for Plaintiff's products as consumers of Defendants' inferior products are induced to purchase by fake reviews and do not perform as advertised; and (ii) erosion of Plaintiff's online ranking on Google and Bing. These harms cannot be calculated or compensated for in monetary terms, and are therefore irreparable.
92. VINO Grotto is also entitled to an injunction prohibiting Defendants from committing further acts of unfair competition, including an order requiring Defendants to circulate corrective advertising and recalling its falsely-labeled products.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
UNFAIR COMPETITION AND FALSE DESIGNATION OF ORIGIN
15 Utah Code § 13-5a-101 et seq.

93. Plaintiff realleges and reincorporates each of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

94. Upon information and belief, Defendant's intentional business acts and practices of using the mark VINO GROTTO, HOME COLLECTOR SERIES, and trade dress in connection with its products are unlawful, unfair, and fraudulent.
95. Defendants' acts have led to a material diminution in value of Plaintiff's intellectual property, including the VINO GROTTO mark and other marks.
96. Defendants' acts, as alleged above, constitute unfair competition as defined by Utah Code § 13-5a-102(4)(a).
97. Plaintiff is entitled to damages for Defendant's acts of unfair competition pursuant to Utah Code § 13-5a-103(1)(b)(i), the amount of which will be determined by an accounting and subject to proof at trial.
98. Plaintiff is also entitled to its costs and attorney fees pursuant to Utah Code § 13-5a-103(1)(b)(ii), the amount of which will be determined at trial.
99. Plaintiff is also entitled to punitive damages for the acts of unfair competition by Defendant pursuant to Utah Code § 13-5a-103(1)(b)(iii), at the discretion of the Court.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
TRADE LIBEL
15 U.S.C. § 1125(a)

100. Plaintiff realleges and reincorporates each of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.
101. The statements and representations made by Defendants of and concerning Plaintiff to Defendants' customers, vendors and suppliers included, but were not limited to disseminating and communicating false and misleading statements and unfounded misrepresentations about the business, goodwill, and reputation of Plaintiff.

102. The aforementioned false statements and representations of and concerning Plaintiff were published, disseminated, or otherwise communicated by Defendants.
103. The aforementioned false statements and representations made by Defendants of and concerning Plaintiff were published, disseminated, or otherwise communicated by Defendants across state borders and in interstate commerce.
104. The aforementioned false statements and representations made by Defendants of and concerning Plaintiff were statements and representations of a commercial nature and constituted commercial speech since they were published, disseminated, or otherwise communicated with the intent of increasing Defendants' market share and revenue and/or decreasing Plaintiff's sales.

 - (c) Defendants knew or should have known that the statements published were false; and
 - (d) Defendants published these statements to various third parties without privilege.

108. As a proximate result of the foregoing acts, Defendants have caused actual harm to Plaintiff and are liable to Plaintiff for damages in an amount to be proven at trial.
109. Defendants have engaged in conduct of an oppressive, fraudulent, and malicious nature, thereby entitling Plaintiff to an award of punitive damages.
110. As a direct and proximate result of the actions, conduct, and practices of Defendants alleged above, Plaintiff has been damaged and will continue to be damaged.
111. Plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law.

SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION
